

Medical Disclaimer:

All information presented and written within www.harvestandhealing.com are intended for informational and educational purposes only. You should not rely on this information as a substitute for, nor does it replace, personal medical advice, diagnosis or treatment. If you have any concerns or questions about your health, you should always consult with a physician or other health-care professional.

The individual reader of this site is ultimately responsible for all decisions pertaining to their own health. Each individual's dietary needs and restrictions are unique to that individual. The writer and publisher of this site is not responsible for adverse reactions, effects, or consequences resulting from the use of any recipes or suggestions found within.